

Protecting your Critical Information

How to safeguard your business against data loss or theft

Cybersecurity is a serious issue for all organisations, and not only for their IT departments.

Executives and managers in industry and government need to understand what the risks are and how they can be lessened.

This information session will provide;

- ◆ The latest advice from experienced industry operators about protecting your critical information from hackers
- ◆ How poor information security impacts on you and your business
- ◆ An insight into how hackers operate and their tools of trade
- ◆ Advice on minimisation of risk through changes to policies and procedures
- ◆ Advice on minimisation of risk through the use of technology or services

This is a short, 90-minute session, running from 12:00 noon to 1:30pm, designed to fit into people's busy schedules.

Limited spaces are available in each session, so please book early to ensure your place.

Investment: $75 per person
